"I waited, thinking with what words to begin. She put one hand to her heart and with the other caught a little poplar tree that shivered under her grasp and said, with white lips, but even more gently;

" Tell me.' "I wondered at my voice being so steady as I said:

"Mrs. Mayor, God will help you and your baby. There has been an accident, and it is all over.'

"She was a miner's wife, and there was no need for more. I could see the pattern of the sunlight falling through the trees upon the grass. I could hear the murmur of the river and the cry of the catbird in the bushes, but we seemed to be in a strange and unreal world. to me and with a little mean said: "Take me to him."

" Sit down for a moment or two,' I entreated.

"'No, no; I am quite ready. See,' she added quietly; 'I am quite strong.'

"I set off by a short cut leading to her home, hoping the men would be there ahead of us; but, passing me, she walked swiftly through the trees, and I followed in fear. As we came near the main path I heard the sound of feet, and I tried to stop her, but she, too, had heard and knew. "'Oh, let me go!' she said piteously.

'You need not fear.'

"And I had not the heart to stop her. In a little opening among the pines we met the bearers. When the men saw her, they laid their burden gently down making no cry; but, kneeling beside murmuring all the time soft words of

"'Oh, my darling, my bonny, bonny love, my heart's love!

Listen, my darling!" "And she put her lips to his ear, whispering, and then the awful stillness. Suddenly she lifted her head and scanned his face, and then, glancing round with a wild surprise in her eyes, she cried;

"'He will not speak to me! Oh, he will not speak to me!" "I signed to the men, and as they came forward I went to her and took her hands.

"'Oh,' she said, with a wail in her voice, 'he will not speak to me!' "The men were sobbing aloud. She looked at them with wide open eyes of wonder. "'Why are they weeping? Will he

"I believe in heaven and the other life, but I confess that for a moment it all seemed shadowy beside the reality of this warm, bright world, full of life and love. She was very ill for two nights, and when the coffin was closed a new baby lay in the father's arms.

"She slowly came back to life, but there were no more songs. The miners still come about her shop and talk to her baby and bring her their sorrows and troubles; but, though she is always gentle, almost tender, with them, no man ever says 'Sing.' And that is why I am glad she sang last week. It will be good for her and good for them," he replied. "They have money-she told me about it-but her heart is in the grave up there under the pines, and, besides, she hopes to do something for the miners, and she will not leave them."

I am afraid I snorted a little impatiently as I said: "Nonsense! Why, with her face and manner and voice she could be anything she liked in Edinburgh or in London."

"And why Edinburgh or London?" he asked coolly.

"Why?" I repeated a little hotly.

"You think this is better?" "Nazareth was good enough for the Lord of Glory," he answered, with a smile none too bright, but it drew my heart to him, and my heat was gone.

"How long will she stay?" I asked. "Till her work is done," he replied. "And when will that be?" I asked impatiently. "When God chooses," he answered gravely. "And don't you ever think but that it is worth while. One value

By this time Mrs. Mavor had finished with the manager and was in the center of a group of miners. Her grand air was all gone, and she was their comrade, their friend, one of themselves. Nor did she assume the role of entertainer, but rather did she, with half shy air, cast herself upon their chivalry, and they were too truly gentlemen to fall her. It is hard to make western men, and especially old timers, talk. But this gift was hers, and it stirred my admiration to see her draw on a grizzled veteran to tell how, twenty years ago, he had crossed the Great Divide and had seen and done what no longer fell to men to see or do in these new days. And so she won the old timer. But it was beautiful to

LESSON THOUGHTS.

Love is the means by or through which God will communicate of his fullness to us. It is the root through which the tree draws its sustenance; it is the foundation upon which must be firmly grounded the temple for the Spirit's indwelling.

The love of God our Saviour is indeed an illimitable ocean. We cannot hope tully to fathom it in this world. But we may know more of it than we do, and we can attain enough to reward all our efforts to understand it.

> SELECTIONS. Make me, pure One, as thou art, Pure in soul and mind and heart; Never satisfied with less Than thy perfect boliness. How anxious we are so to live that we may not grieve away our friends from dlesex, Wednesday night. The store of our dwellings! Shou'd an illustrious guest become an inmate in our abode, how anxious should we be to do all that we can to please him, and to retain him with us! How much more anxious should we be to secure the indwelling of the eternal Spirit! How desirous that he should make our hearts and the church his constant a pode! If thou, then wouldst have thy soul surcharged with the fire of God, so that those who come nigh to thee shall feel some mysterious influence proceeding out from thee, thou must draw nigh to the source of that fire, to the throne of God and of the Lamb, and shut thyself out from the world-that cold world, which so swiftly steals our fire away. Divine grace, even in the heart of weak and sinful man, is invincible. Drown it in the waters of adversity, it rises more beautiful, as not being drowned indeed, but only washed; throw it into the furnace of fiery trials, it comes out purer, and loses nothing but the dross.

"Yes, I have made what I consider to be an important discovery. To tell you about it I must start at the beginning. "That was a number of years ago," he continued. "The nature of my work forced me to be very irregular with my meals and that, together with a general misuse of my stomach, brought on nervous dyspepsia. My trouble commenced with bloating constipation and this was accompanied with pain in the back and stomach. I suffered with shortness of breath and palpitation of the heart, sleeplessness and an absolutely miserable to my bed for three weeks and times without number after that I was obliged to give up. My kidneys also became affected and caused me considerable trouble. "Four different doctors attempted to cure me but they gave me only temporary relief. I became utterly discouraged. Then I tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. Relief came in about a week and at the end of four months I was entirely well. "I can only say that I believe I owe my life to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and can find no words to express my thanks for what they have done for me. CHEAP CRACKERS. Don't be deceived, and pay full price for the cheap crackers, they are made cheap, and are sold cheap; but when you buy 't. Johnsbury Crackers, you may be sure that you will get full value for your money, as no adulterated stock of any kind whatever, is used in their manufacture. One comparison used in their manufacture. One comparison with the cheap crackers will convince anyone of that fact,
